

Andrew Powell

Andrew was called to the Bar of England and Wales in 2008 and is specialist family law barrister at 4 Paper Buildings in London. He specialises in the international movement of children, child protection, adoption (domestic and international) and surrogacy.

In addition to his practice focusing on arrangements for children, Andrew has a specialist practice representing clients on the law relating to the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Act 2008 (surrogacy, parental order applications and fertility treatment) and disputes arising from LGBTQ+ parenting arrangements. He has appeared on a number of the leading reported cases in this area of law.

In 2014 Andrew spent time at a law firm in Los Angeles specialising in surrogacy and fertility law, having received a Pegasus Scholarship.

Andrew's book, 'A practical guide to the law in relation to surrogacy' was published in November 2020
